Esau's Blessing.

BY REV. EDWARD C. JONES.

"Hast thou but one blessing, Oh, my father? Bless me, even me also, Oh, my father. And Esau lifted up his voice and wept."—Genesis.

Hast thou no blessing but the one,
The solitary boon of love?
And shall thy other sorrowing son
Despair a deep anguish prove?
Nor find one beam to gild the cloud
Which all his future life must shroud?

In vain will Canaan's sun mature
The grape and pomegranate for me,
The wheat and flocks would leave me poor,
If bent on suppliant knee—
I could not from its cell evoke,
The benison thy heart has spoke.

Thy heart I know has spoken it,
Though lip refuse to give it birth,
See! how the evening shadow's flit,
Athwart my mother's hearth.
Oh, father! must this sun go down,
And leave me with thy giant frown?

He came with subtlety and took
My choicest gem from out its place,
He knew contempt I could not brook,
And yet he scorns my face:
He is the mighty hunter now,
And I, the doe whose antlers bow.

I sped me from the chase to bring
My father's savory meat in joy,
For not a bird of swiftest wing
Could much outstrip his boy:
And lo! what speaks his quivering tone,
My birthright and my blessing gone.

Thou must not die and I uncheered
By that prophetic voice of power—
My inmost spirit must be seared,
If madness ruled the hour;
And madness o'er this brain must come,
If those dear lips of thine keep dumb.

He bowed his stalwart form and wept,
He shook like cedar swayed by storm,
And the sweet benison that slept,
Came thick, and fast, and warm—
And in the distance he could see,
The broken yoke of destiny.

WINTER.

From his den in the darkened North he comes,
With a thousand shadowy forms,
To fetter the sea with a blast of his breath,
To take a king's share in the harvest of death,
And revel in withering storms!

Oh, a grim old tyrant and grey is he,
With the ashes of year upon year;
His garb is a hurricane wrapping him round,
And the sun is the jewel with which it is bound,
Till clouds, to unrobe him, appear.

He has ghosts the long-armed ghosts of the wood,
That watch o'er the graves of the flowers;
And he mockingly decks them with crystals of lights,
And wraps their stiff limbs in a garment of white,
Brought out of the sands of his hours.

He breathes on the river, and bids it lie
Unnerved in a living death;
He velleth the sun in a storm-bearing cloud,
He covers the earth with an ice threaded shroud,
And fastens it on with a breath.

The Old Year dies in his deadly grip,
And aside from the present is cast;
New Year springs from its icy grave,
And strong in its youth the foe to brave,
Shall live when the Winter is past.

Select Story.

TOM ROCKET, THE ENGLISH HIGHWAYMAN.

Tom Rocket was a highwayman. No one ever christened him Tom, and his father's name was not Rocket. When he was tried for his life at Warwick assizes, he was arraigned as Charles Jackson, and they were particular about names then. If you indicted a man as Jim, and his true name was Joe, he got off; and when the law was altered—so that they could set such errors right at the trial—people, leastwise lawyers, said that the British constitution was being pulled up, root and branch. But that's neither here nor there. I cannot tell you how it was that he came to be known as Tom Rocket, and if I could, it would not have anything to do with my story. For six years he was the most famous thief in the Midland counties and for six years no one knew what he was like. He was a lazy fellow, was Tom; he never came out except when there was a good prize to be picked up, and he had his scouts and his spies all over the place to give him information about booty, and warn him of danger. But to judge by what people said, he was "on the road" at half a dozen different places at once, every day of his life; for you see when any one was robbed of his property, or found it convenient so to account for it, why he laid it upon Tom Rocket as a sort of excuse for giving it up easily, because, you see, no one thought of arresting Tom.—So it was, that all sorts of conflicting descriptions of his person got abroad. One said that he was an awfully tall man and had a voice like thunder; another, that he was a mild little man, with black eyes and light hair. He was a fiery fat man, with blue eyes and black hair with some; he had a jolly red face—he was as pale as death—his nose was Roman one day, Grecian or snob the next. His dress was all the colors of the rainbow, and as for his horse, that was of every shade and breed that was ever heard of, and a good many more beside that have yet to be found. He wore a black half-mask, but some how or other it was always obligingenough to slip off, so as to give each of his victims a full view of his face, only no two of them could ever agree as to what it was like.

My father was a Gloucestershire man.—He stood six feet three in his stockings, and measured thirty-six inches across the chest. He could double up a half crown between his finger and thumb, and was as brave as a lion. So, many a time and oft, when any one talked of the dangers of the road, he would set his great teeth together, shake his head, and say that he should like to see the man who could rob him on the highway; and as I said before, he did see him, and it was Tom Rocket.

My father was a lawyer, and was, at the time I have mentioned, engaged in a great tithe cause that was to be tried at the Warwick Spring assizes. So, shortly before Christmas, he had to go over to look up evidence. There was no cross-country coach, so he rode; and being, as I have said, a brave man, he rode alone. He transacted his business, and my poor mother being ill, and not liking to leave her alone longer than he could help, he set out to ride home again, about half past nine that same evening. It was as beautiful a winter's night as ever you were out in. His nag was a first-rate hunter, as docile as as a dog, and fit to carry even his weight over or past anything. He held a brace of excellent pistols in his holsters, and he jogged along, humming a merry tune, neither thinking nor caring for any robber under the sun. All of a sudden it struck him that the pretty barmaid of an inn just out of Warwick town, where he had stopped to have a girth that he had broken patched together, had been very busy with those self-same pistols; and suspecting that she might have been tampering with them he drew the charges and re-loaded them carefully. This done, he jogged on as before.

He had ridden about ten miles, when he came to a wooden bridge that there was in those days over Avon. Just beyond it rose a stolfish hill, at the top of which was a sudden bend in the road.—Just as my father reached this turn, a masked horseman suddenly wheeled upon him, and bade him—"Stand and deliver." It was Tom Rocket! In a second my father's pistols were out, cocked and snapped within a yard of the highwayman's breast; but, one after the other, they missed fire! The pretty bar-maid—a special favorite of Tom's—was too sharp to rely on the old dodge of drawing the balls, or damping the charge; she thrusts a pin in to each touch-hole, and broke it short off.

"Any more?" Tom inquired, as coolly as you please, when my father's second pistol flashed in the pan.

"Yes!" shouted my father in a fury, "one on your knob!" And seizing the weapon last used by the muzzle, he hurled it with all his might and main at Rocket's head. Tom ducked, the pistol flew over the hedge, and my father thrown out of balance by his exertion, lost his seat, and fell heavily on the grass by the roadside. In less time than it takes to say so, Tom dismounted, seized my father by the collar, and presenting a pistol within an inch of his face as he lay, bade him be quiet, or it would be worse for him.

"You've given me a deal of trouble, said Tom. "So just hand over your purse without any more ado, or by G—d I'll send a bullet through your skull—just there;" and laid the cold muzzle of his pistol on my father's forehead just between his eyes.

It is bad enough to have to look down the barrel of loaded firearms upon full cock, with a highwayman's finger upon the trigger; but to have the cold muzzle pressed slowly upon your head—ugh!—it makes me creep to think of it.

My father made a virtue of necessity, and quietly gave up his purse.

"Much good may it do you," he said; "for there's only three and sixpence in it."

"Now for your pocket-book," said Tom, not hearing him.

"Pocket-book!" inquired my father, turning a little pale.

"Aye, pocket-book!" Tom repeated; "a thick black one; it is in the left hand pocket of your riding coat."

"Here it is," said my father, "you know so much about it that perhaps you can tell what its contents are worth?"

"I'll see," Tom replied, quietly taking out and unfolding half a dozen legal looking documents.

"They are law papers—not worth a cent to you or any one else," said my father.

"Then," Tom replied, "I can tear them up," and he made as though he would do so.

"Hold!" on your life!" my father shouted, struggling hard, but in vain, to rise.

"Oh! they are worth something then," said Tom, with a grin.

"It would take a deal of trouble to make them out again," my father replied sulkily—"that's all."

"How much trouble?" Tom inquired, with a meaning look.

"Well," my father answered, "I suppose I know what you are driving at.—Hand me them back and let me go, and I promise to send you a hundred pounds when and where you please."

"You know very well that these papers are worth more than a hundred," said Tom.

"A hundred and fifty then," said my father.

"Go on," said Tom.

"I tell you what it is, you scoundrel," cried my father, "I'll stake five hundred against them, if you'll loose your hold and fight me fairly for it."

Tom only chuckled.

"Why what a ninny you must take me for," he said; "why should I bother myself fighting for what I even get without."

"You're a cur, that's what you are," my father shouted in a fury.

"Don't be cross," said Tom, "it don't become you to look red in the face. Now attend to me," he continued in an altered tone, "do you see that bridge? Well!—there's a heap of stones in the centre, is there not? Very good! If you will place five hundred guineas in gold, in a bag, in those stones, at twelve o'clock at night this day week, you shall find your pocket-book and all its contents in the same place two hours afterwards."

"How am I to know that you will keep your word?" my father inquired, a little softened by the hope of regaining, even at so heavy a price, the papers that were so valuable to him.

"I'm Tom Rocket," replied the robber, securing the pocket-book upon his person, "and what I say I mean; and what I say I stick to. Now, get up, and mind," he added as my father sprang to his feet, "my pistols don't miss fire."

"I shall live to see you hanged," my father muttered, adjusting his disordered dress.

"Shall I help you to catch your horse," Tom politely asked.

"I'll never rest till I lodge you in jail," said my father, savagely.

"Give my compliments to your wife," said Tom, mounting his horse.

"Confound your impudence," howled my father.

"Good night," said Tom, with a wave of his hand, and turning sharp round, he jumped his horse over the fence and was out of sight in a moment.

It was not quite fair of my father, I must own, but he was determined to set a trap for Tom Rocket, baited with five hundred guineas, at the bridge. He posted up to London, saw Bradshaw, a famous Bow street runner, and arranged that he and his men should come down, and help to catch Tom; but just at the last moment Bradshaw was detained upon some important government trial, and so another runner, Frazer, a no less celebrated officer, took his place.

It was settled that the runners should come by different roads, and all meet at a way side inn, about five miles from the bridge, at eight o'clock P. M., on the day my father's pocket-book was to be returned. An hour afterwards they were to join him on the road three miles further on.—Their object, you see, in taking this round-about course was to baffle Tom's spies and accomplices, and to get securely hid about the appointed place long before the appointed time.

My father was a little late at the place of meeting; but when he arrived there he could see no one about, except a loutish-looking countryman in a smock-frock, who was swinging on a gate hard by.

"Goodnight, muister," said the Yokel.

"Good night to you," replied my father.

"Can ye tell me who this yer letter's for," said the yokel, producing a folded paper.

My father saw in a moment that it was his own letter to Bradshaw.

"Where did you get that?" he asked quickly.

"Ah!" replied the yokel, replacing it in his pocket, "that ud be telling. Be yer expecting anybody?"

"What's that to you?" replied my father

"Oh 'nough," said yokel, "only a gentleman from London—"

"Ha!" cried my father; "what gentleman!"

"Will a name beginning with F: suit you?" asked the yokel.

"Frazer?" The word fell involuntarily from my father's lips.

"That's the name," replied the yokel, jumping down from his seat, and changing his tone and manner in a moment.—"I'm Frazer, sir; and you're Mr. Sandiger, as has been robbed of a pocket-book containing valuable papers; and we're going to catch Tom Rocket as has got it—that's our game, sir. All right, sir; and now to business."

"But where are your men?" my father asked, when Frazer had explained the reason for his disguise.

"All right again, sir," said the runner, "they will join us. We have not much time to lose, so please to lead the way."

So my father led the way, followed by Frazer; and by the time that they came in sight of the bridge, they had been joined by four London officers in different disguises, and from different directions—One appeared as a tramp, one as a pedler another as a gentleman's servant leading a horse, and the fourth as a soldier. No one could have guessed that they had met before, much less that they were engaged together in pre-concerted scheme. My father gave Frazer great credit for the dexterous way in which he had collected his forces.

The bridge upon which the money was to be placed, consisted of two arches across the river, and was joined on either side by a long sort of causeway, built upon piles over meadows, that in the winter time were generally covered with water. It so happened, that the very next morning after the robbery, a heavy rain set in, and soon the floods were out, so that there was no way of getting on the bridge but by going along the causeway, which extended a distance of a hundred yards, sloping down gradually to the river. This causeway was built of wood. At some places the timbers were covered with earth and stones, but at others the roadway had wornout and they were bare, so that any one looking up from underneath, could see who was passing overhead. Mr. Frazer's sharp eye took in the position in a moment. He got two hurdles out of a field close by, and with some rope, that he had brought for another purpose, fastened them to the piles, so that they hung like shelves between the roadway and the flood, one at each side of the bridge, and about 20 yards from it. This was his plan; two of his men were to be hidden on each hurdle, whilst he and my father, in a boat that was concealed beneath the main arch of the bridge, unseen themselves, could watch the heap of stones where the money was to be placed, and the stolen pocket-book left in exchange for it. As soon as Tom Rocket, or any of his friends, removed the bag in which the gold was placed, Fraser was to whistle, and his men were to climb from their hiding places, and secure whoever it might be. If he leaped over the railing of the causeway, and took to the water, there was the boat in which to follow and capture him.

Mr. Fraser was very particular to practice his allies in springing quickly from their places of concealment, and impressed upon them and my father the necessity of all acting together, keeping careful watch and strict silence. "And now, sir," he said to my father as a distant clock chimed a quarter of twelve, "so, come to get to our places and to bait the trap; please to hand me the bag that I may mark it, and some of the coins so as to be able to identify them at the trial." He had made up his mind you see to nail Mr. Tom Rocket this time.

My father gave him the bag, saw him write upon it, and make some scratches on about a dozen of the guineas, and then my father let himself down in the boat, in which he was immediately joined by the runner.

"It's all right," said Fraser, in a low tone.

"Do you think he will come?" whispered my father.

"Certain," replied Fraser, "but hush, we must not talk, sir, times up."

For three mortal hours did my father sit in that boat, and the runners lay stretched out on the broad of their backs upon those hurdles watching for Tom Rocket to come for his money; and for three mortal hours not a soul approached the bridge, not a sound but the wash of the swollen river was heard. By the time that the clock struck three, my father, who had been nodding for the last twenty minutes, fell fast asleep as he sat covered up in his cloak, for it was a bitter cold night; but was very speedily aroused by hearing Fraser cry out that they were adrift.

Adrift they were, sure enough. The rope that held them had been chafed upon the sharp corner of a pile, (so Mr. Fraser explained,) till it broke, and away went the boat, whirling round and round in the eddies of the river, fit to make any one giddy. So strong was the stream, that they were carried a mile and a half down it, before they could get ashore. My father was for returning directly to the bridge, and so was Fraser; but, somehow or other, they lost each other in the dark, and when my father arrived there, having run nearly all the way, he found, to his great surprise, that the officers had left. He rushed to the heap of stones, and there the first thing that caught his eye was his pocket-book—the money was gone!

Lord how he did swear!

Determining to have it out with the runners for deserting their posts, he hurried on to the inn where they had met, and were to pass the night. He knocked at the door. No answer. He knocked again, louder. No answer. He was not in the very best of tempers, as you may guess; so he gave the door a heavy kick. In it flew; and a sight met his view that fairly took his breath. Tied into five chairs, hand and foot, trussed up like so many Christmas turkeys, with five gags in their mouths, and their five pair of eyes glaring at him owlishly, sat the real Mr. Fraser and his four Bow street runners.—Tom Rocket had managed the business at the bridge himself! How he managed to get scent of the plot, and to seize the officers altogether, just at the nick of time, my father never could find out, and no one knows yet.

Upon examining his pocket-book, my father found all his documents, and paper on which was written these words:

"By destroying these writings I could have ruined you. In doing so I should have injured your client, whom I respect. For his sake I keep my word, though you have played me false.

TOM ROCKETT."

Here Mr. Josh paused, and puffed for some time in silence.

"And what became of Tom?" interrogated one of the company.

"Well," replied Mr. Josh, "after having been tried three times, and getting off upon some law quibble on each occasion, he, who had robbed the worth of thousands of pounds and escaped, was executed at Nottingham for stealing an old bridle!"

Indian Love.

A young Indian failed in his attentions to a young squaw. She made complaint to an old chief, who appointed a hearing or trial. The lady laid the case before the judge, and explained the nature of the promise made to her. It consisted of sundry visits to her wigwam, "many indefinite attentions," and presents, a bunch of feathers, and several yards of red flannel. This was the charge. The faithless swain denied the "undefinable attentions" in toto. He had visited her father's wigwam, for the purpose of passing away time, when it was not convenient to hunt, and had given the feathers and flannel from friendly motives, and nothing further. During the latter part of the defence the squaw fainted. The plea was considered invalid, and the offender sentenced to give the lady "a yellow feather, a brooch that was then dangling from his nose, and a dozen fox tails." The sentence was no sooner concluded than the squaw sprang upon her feet, and clapped her hands, exclaimed with joy:

"Now me ready to be courted again."

Printer's Ten Commandments.

1. Thou shalt love the printer—for he is the standard of the country.
2. Thou shalt subscribe for his paper—for he wisheth much to obtain the news, of which you might remain ignorant.
3 Thou shalt subscribe to his paper—for he laboreth hard to give you the news in due season.
4. If a business man, thou shalt advertise that, through the profits, he may enable thee not only to pay for thy paper, but "put money in thy purse."
5. Thou shalt not visit him regardless of his office rules—deranging his papers.
6. Thou shalt touch nothing that will give the printer trouble; that he may not hold thee guilty.
7. Thou shalt not read the manuscript in the hands of the compositor—for he will not hold thee blameless.
8. Thou shalt not see the news before it is printed—for he will give it to thee in due season.
9. Thou shalt not question him about things in the office—from it thou shalt tell nothing.
10. Thou shalt not, at any time, send abusive and intimidating epistles to the editor, nor cowhide him more than five times per annum.

A BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.—Beautiful is old age, beautiful as the slow drooping of mellow autumn of a rich, glorious summer. In the old man nature has fulfilled her designs; she loads him with the fruit of a well-spent life; and surrounded by his children, she bears him softly away to the grave, to which he is followed by blessings. God forbid that we should not call it beautiful. There is another life, hard, rough and thorny, trodden with bleeding feet, and aching brow; a battle which no peace follows this side of the grave; which the grave capes to finish before the victory is won; and strange that it should be—this is the highest life of man. Case along the great name of history; there is none whose life has been other than this.

☞ A man who had been recently a major of militia, and was not overburdened with brains, concluded, on the morning of parade, to exercise a little by himself. The field selected for the purpose was his own apartment. Placing himself in a military attitude, with his sword drawn, he exclaimed:

"Attention, company! Rear, file, three paces, march!" and he tumbled down into the cellar. His wife, hearing the noise, came running in, exclaiming:

"My dear, have you hurt yourself?"

"Go about your business, woman," said the hero, "what do you understand about war?"

☞ It is a fair step toward happiness and virtue to delight in the company and conversation of good men, and when these can't be had, it is better to have no company at all.

☞ Kindnesses are stowed away in the heart as rose leaves in a drawer, to sweeten every object around them.

☞ Never have a cigar in your mouth while conversing with a lady, nor use it in a carriage or room where a lady is sitting.

☞ The Ladies' Home Magazine, edited by T. S. Arthur & Virginia F. Townsend, Philadelphia, for February has arrived, and is a welcome visitor. The engravings and fashion plate are equal to those of the $3 magazines, and the reading matter is excellent. $2 per annum; 4 copies $5.

Peterson's Magazine, for February, is on our table, and we find it to be a very interesting number. Our lady readers will find the fashions and everything relating to domestic economy fully up to their minds. Address C. J. Peterson, 106 Chestnut st., Phila.

☞ Senator Bigler has introduced a bill in Congress to punish hostile expeditions from one State against another, making the offence treason; and any person who happens to know about the fitting out of such expedition and does not disclose, shall be fined and imprisoned.

☞ We have received the January number of the "Farmer and Gardener," a magazine devoted to agriculture, horticulture, and rural affairs generally. It is a good journal, and, on account of its cheapness—one dollar per annum—should be in the hands of every Farmer. Address A. M. Spangler, Philadelphia.

TRIAL OF CONSPIRATORS.—The Legislature of Virginia having authorized a special term of the Circuit Court for the county of Jefferson, Judge Parker has directed notice to be given that the term will be commenced on the first day of February next. It is understood that Stephens and Hazlett, two of the Harper's Ferry conspirators, will then be tried.

THE POSTOFFICE CONTRACTORS.—A number of letters were received at the Postoffice Department in Washington, on Tuesday, from mail contractors in different parts of the Union, declaring their intention to break off the lines, if no appropriation is made by the 1st of March. The House of Representatives, in so long delaying its organization, is assuming a fearful responsibility.

CORNWALL ORE MOUNTAIN.—One of the elements of Pennsylvania riches is the Cornwall ore mountain, in Lebanon county. This Cornwall ore-bed is a geological wonder, containing, as it does, upwards of fifty millions of tons of the purest iron ore, which can be mined and loaded into cars for ten cents per ton. We are informed that in a single season more than two hundred thousand tons of this ore, more valuable than the gold mines of California, have been taken out. The Cornwall mines are owned by different proprietors, the Coleman heirs owning a considerable proportion.

TROUBLE IN KANSAS.—The Territorial Legislature of Kansas, after organizing, passed a joint resolution adjourning from Lecompton to Lawrence, which Gov. Medary vetoed. The Legislature then passed the resolution over the Governor's veto, by a two-thirds vote. A question having arisen as to the constitutionality of the resolution, the majority adjourned to Lawrence, and the minority remained at Lecompton. Both factions claimed to be the only legal body. The alleged reason of the majority for quitting Lecompton is the insufficiency of accommodation. An attempt to reconcile the difference will be made by the introduction in both bodies of a resolution favoring an adjournment to Leavenworth

☞ All men come into the world alone, all leave it alone; king and priest, warrior and maiden, philosopher and child; all alike must walk death's mighty galleries alone.

☞ Terrible Affair.—A man named Clark, residing in Lexington, Ky., on the 5th instant, killed his wife, child and negro servant. He afterwards attempted to commit suicide.

☞ At Easton, recently, a German died on a Friday morning before daylight, was buried about noon, and the same afternoon his goods were sold at auction. Rather quick work, that!

☞ On Wednesday week the house of Mr. Michael Garrity, near Locke's Mills, Mifflin county, was destroyed by fire. Two children, aged five and ten years, perished in the flames.

☞ Mr. W. H. Radcliffe, formerly of Cleveland, has been notified by the Postmaster in New Orleans that the Republican journals of the former city are incendiary publications, and that he must stop receiving them.

☞ A resolution has been introduced into the Virginia House of Delegates, inquiring into the propriety of taxing bachelors, past thirty years of age, $10 per annum, for the education of poor children.

☞ In Jackson, Oregon, about a month since, a man named Otterbury was stripped, tied to a tree, and thirty lashes applied to his bare back with a raw hide, for selling whiskey to Indians who were camped near the plains.

☞ At the late term of Court at Peoria, Illinois, seventeen divorce cases were granted, all but three of them on application of the wives. A large number of cases, in addition were continued, one was withdrawn and several were dismissed.

☞ In Georgia they seem to have a law to prevent matrimony among the too old as well as the too young. The Legislature recently passed a bill for the relief of Caleb Webb, an old man 70 years of age, and allowing him to marry.

☞ Judge Krum, of St. Louis, a prominent lawyer, following the lead of Judge Catron, of Tennessee, has published an earnest remonstrance against the bill to enslave the free colored people of Missouri, now before the Legislature of that State.

☞ Prentice says: "If the Northern abolitionists do not think it wrong to steal our slaves because they are men, they perhaps will recognize the fact that as negroes are the descendants of Ham, it is larceny to appropriate other people's Bacon."

☞ Mr. Tenbroeck, the owner of American race-horses in England, it is said, stands to win $300,000 upon his horse Umpire, at the next Derby races, or to loose only $3,000. All his bets were made when the odds against his horse were 100 to 1. Now he is first favorite.

☞ Milburn, in "Ten Years of Preacher Life," says: "I confess to a grateful love of log cabins, and am much inclined to the belief that their humble roofs have sheltered a greater amount of health, content, happiness and virtue, than the best style of domestic architecture."

☞ A young man, calling himself Davis Ferguson, and other aliases, has been traveling recently through Wisconsin and Iowa, and doing a large business in the way of marrying young girls and appropriating other peoples property. Within three weeks he married no less than six wives.

☞ George W. Parsons, of Duncannon, Perry county, was killed, on Thursday week, by the fall of a tree, while he was engaged in cutting timber for the re-building of the Nail Factory at that place, which was recently destroyed by fire. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his death.

☞ The London correspondent of the Independent states that Signor Mortara was recently in that city seeking aid to recover his stolen child. He met with much sympathy in high quarters, but the Pope, adds the writer, holds on to the boy like grim death, and the chances of his recovering him are anything but flattering.

☞ The Boston Pilot, after rehearsing at length the recent persecutions of Powers, who was tarred and feathered in South Carolina, and of James Cranagle, who was so summarily expelled from Alabama, warns the South to be careful how it treats Irishmen, or she may lose those in the North who have hitherto been her warmest friends.

☞ Bent on revenging his death.—It is said that some parties in Adams county, Pa., recently seized upon South Mountain one Myers, supposing that he was the constable who captured Cook, of Harper's Ferry notoriety. A company, it is said, is banded to take his life, but on discovering their mistake, they released Myers.

☞ At Pike's Peak, Dec. 1st, the mercury congealed at 39½ degrees below zero. Liquor froze in the grog shops, and wine and ale bottles burst, and an ox froze to death. Two wolves were driven into town by hunger. The weather was supposed to be colder by 30 degrees than at any time last winter. It changed 90 degrees in the space of 36 hours.

Bad writing.—The Postmaster General in his late report, makes a statement with regard to the superscription of letters, which, though not new, is deserving attention.—He says "the reason why letters do not reach their destination is traced in a large majority of cases to the writers themselves, who either misdirect or do not write a legible hand."

☞ Chester county, in this State, was the scene of another terrible tragedy the other day. A negro man, named Alfred Miller, attempted to force an entrance to the house of Mary Poulson, with a view of getting some wood to light a fire, and was struck down by the latter with an axe and instantly killed. The murderess is in jail in West Chester and looks as if the occurrence had destroyed her reason.

☞ Jas. Murphy, residing in Louisville, Ky., the day before Christmas, in attempting to extract a bone out of a hog's throat, was badly bitten by the animal. In less than a week he was attacked by symptoms of hydrophobia, which lasted until Thursday, when he got better, but on the 6th instant he was again attacked, and soon died in horrible agony.

☞ S. D. Sherman, of Beloit, Wisconsin, was caught in a machine shop by a shaft, the other day, and whirled around at the rate of sixty revolutions a minute. When his clothes were all dragged off he fell to the floor. The soles of his boots were entirely whipped off by striking against the frame of a grindstone which stood nearly under the shaft. His back and one arm were badly bruised, as were also his legs, though it is thought his wounds are not fatal.

☞ A conspiracy has just come to light in Providence, R. I., wherein it was shown that a woman and her daughter and son-in-law, had brought a charge of an infamous crime against her husband. They hoped to have the husband and father convicted, and sent to the State prison, and so acquire possession of his property. The daughter, however, when brought into Court, swore that the charge was false, and that she made it under threats from the parties before named, who were at once committed, to take their trial for perjury.

Letter from Harrisburg.

Correspondence of the Tribune.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24, 1860.

Gentlemen:—The Tariff resolutions introduced by Mr. Strong were debated on Wednesday last, and passed, only 24 votes being recorded against them. So deeply is Pennsylvania interested in an increase of duties on iron and coal, that I think the resolutions would have passed without a dissenting voice, but for party rancor, which induced one of the Opposition members to add a resolution reflecting upon the President.—This is to be regretted, for in Pennsylvania there is no person opposed to a protective tariff, let politicians be forced into whatever attitude they may. But that these resolutions will have any effect, I do not believe. I am rather disposed to think that the independent sovereigns who sit at Washington will be disposed to treat with contempt any effort to instruct them in their duty, especially when such instructions come from what they in their lofty grandeur look upon as a very inferior body.

Insuring against loss by fire in Philadelphia has become an uncertain business. Within the last few years the Legislature has granted a large number of charters for new companies, and it is said that many of them are now open and doing business upon fictitious capital. Under such circumstances it is the duty, as well as the interest, of the solvent companies to crush out the existence of these bogus institutions, or suffer hereafter for their short-comings.

To effect this, some gentlemen are now here, working for the passage of a bill having for its oeject a thorough monthly examination of the standing and condition of each insurance company in the cities. This bill, if it passes, will be likely to knock some of the bogus companies higher than a kite, and it is not unlikely that it will send to Coventry some that have standing in the community.

The contested election case, Wiley vs. Duffield, resulted adversely to Duffield, who has taken his departure, and Wiley has taken his seat. The Committee, after a patient investigation reported, Wiley elected by a majority of thirteen votes. The case of Donnelly will not be decided for a week or ten days, as the Committee will probably move to Philadelphia to take the testimony.

The Philadelphians are after more Passenger Railway charters, notwithstanding nearly all the main thoroughfares are already occupied.—Broad street, it appears, was, by some means or other, overlooked last winter, and several companies are after it with several pieces of timber. It is supposed to be the last really profitable speculation left in that line.

There are some six or seven applications for bank charters, and also a bill pending for a free banking law. If there is to be any increase of banking capital in the State, I say let it be on the free banking principle. Let the people who have bank-notes in their pockets have the assurance that they will be redeemed, and it will put an end to the everlasting currency-tinkering

No bills of any moment have as yet been passed, but I live in the hope that we shall soon have something to write that will, at least, be worth the ink and paper used. Yours,

LOGAN.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA COMMISSIONER.—Mr. Memminger, the Commissioner sent by the Legislature of South Carolina to Virginia, has been addressing the Legislature of the latter State on the subject of his mission. He argued that, if the Union must be continued, the South must demand other and more efficient guarantees, or make concession after concession until she has lost all influence, all consideration and all right in the Confederacy. He urged the propriety of a Convention of the Southern States to consider the questions growing out of the relations of the South to the Northern States. There is some diversity in the South as to the propriety of Mr. Memminger's mission. Mr. Perry, one of the ablest members of the South Carolina Legislature, publicly expresses his belief that it is in bad taste and Quixotic—it was like a neighbor going to a gentleman and telling him his honor was wounded, and he must resent it or fight. Virginia was able to see for herself what her honor required, and did not need the promptings of South Carolina.

☞ E. H. Rauch, Esq., the Chief Clerk of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, writes to his paper, the Mauch Chunk Gazette, as follows:—My first official duties were the appointment of the pages, pasters, folders, and "hull scrubbers." The pages receive each $1 per day, the pasters and folders each $1, and the "scrubbers" 50 cents. For pages there were some twenty-five applicants, and six appointed: for pasters and folders about thirty five applicants, and eleven appointed; and for scrubbers (women) about seventy-five applicants, and thirty-three appointed. These appointments are extremely annoying. Nearly every applicant presents strong recommendations with the plea of destitution. I was compelled to disappoint many, some of whom, no doubt were very poor and needy, who would be greatly benefitted by the pitiful sum of fifty cents per day.

BUYING AND SELLING.—the following sensible hit will suit our lattitude, as well as some others, and may be read with profit by all engaged in buying and selling:

"Some are not honest in buying or selling. Their rule is, at all times, to buy as cheap as they can, and sell as dear as they can. This is a wicked rule We often trade with those who do not know the worth of the thing bought or sold. It is cheating them to make the best bargain we can. Sometimes we trade with those who are in great want, and we fix our prices, and make them too high if we sell, or too low if we buy. There is a fair price for everything. He who is just and true, and who loves his neighbor as himself, will soon find out what a fair price is. Almost all men use too many words in buying and selling, and there is almost always a lie somewhere."

☞ A late letter from Texas, in speaking of the recent intense cold weather there says:—"Two ice-houses at Waco, in lat 49°, were filled last week. Oxen out on the public roads died by hundreds. I have seen as many as forty sheep dead in one pen, all of which died in one night. In several places hogs in fine fat order, have frozen, and especially when in floored pens.—Some few horses have been found frozen, and the chickens generally are shedding their toes. We learn from the Houston Telegraph that, during the late cold weather, there were from fifty to sixty persons frozen to death in Texas, at least forty of whom were under the influence of liquor when frozen. There were also many thousands of hogs, cattle, and sheep frozen to death in that State. In that region the people are so unaccustomed to cold that what would not be considered much here is terribly severe there.

More Oil—Extraordinary Yield.

Since our last, says the Venango Spectator, a pump has been put into the oil well on the farm of Hamilton M'Clintock, on Oil Creek, two miles above the mouth, and the yield of oil is beyond expectation, being near double that of Drake's. A number of persons have visited the well, and all agree that one gallon of pure oil is pumped every minute! The quantity appears to be limited to the capacity of the pump, and no doubts are entertained of the supply holding out. The proprietors are busily engaged in making preparations to barrel the oil, which appears to be the great difficulty in the way. California and Pike's Peak will have to knock under to this.

Other wells are being sunk in that vicinity.—One, a little further up the creek, in which our young friend Kim Hibbard is largely interested, has reached the oil, and bids fair to equal the best in productiveness.

There is no difficulty in obtaining sights by giving a per centage of the oil, and there appears to be a general "pitching in" by those desiring to try their luck.

☞ Rev. A. S. Finch publishes in the Brockport Advertiser a card of warning to the public, and his brethren, the clergy, in particular, against a woman whom he married early last fall, and who has since deserted and ruined him. He explains how his ruin was accomplished.—While attending the Brockport camp-meeting, a woman, small in stature, wearing spectacles, and prepossessing in appearance, appeared, pursued him in a carriage, and told him of her esteem and how much she was worth, and induced him to marry her. He consented, the knot was tied, and she, having accomplished his ruin, forsook him, probably to find another victim. Mr Finch asserts in his card that this woman has served two men, at least, in the same way before—one residing at Belleville, C. W., the other in Wisconsin. The Wisconsin man she left in a destitute condition, with three children to provide for.

☞ The Cleveland Plaindealer announces that Mr. J. W. Fitch, U. S. Marshal of Northern Ohio, on the preceding day received a bundle of official documents from the Chairman of the Harper's Ferry Investigating Committee, commanding him to summon Joshua R. Giddings, R. Plumb and John Brown, Jr., to appear before the committee and testify under oath all they may know of the organization of "The Sons of Liberty," or any other organization connected with John Brown's "work in Kansas." If these witnesses refuse to obey the summons, they are to be arrested under warrants which accompanied the subpœnas. The Plaindealer also states that the Sons of Liberty, at West Andover, Ohio, have decided deliberately to refuse to obey the summons, and to resist if any attempts are made to enforce it. The same action has been taken at Oberlin.

HUNTING A PANTHER.—Abraham Nivling, of Jamesville, and Amassa Smith, Sr., of Beccaria Mills, Clearfield county, went recently to the Moshannon woods to hunt panthers. They soon struck the trail of a very large one, which they followed for four successive days, camping at nights by a large fire, without shelter or any kind, during very cold weather. On the fourth day, 27th of December, the animal caught a rabbit, after devouring which, it proceeded about two hundred yards, and laid down. Here the dog found it, when it took to a tree, ascending to the height of about seventy feet. Nivling raised his gun, and brought it down the first fire, the ball entering the nostrils, and, after traversing the neck, lodged in the breast. The "varmint" measured twelve feet six inches from end of nose to tip of tail.

AN INHUMAN MOTHER.—In Chenango, N. Y., the other day, a woman, named Julia Anne Cady was arrested charged with attempting the life of her illegitimate child. From the statement of the little one it would appear that its inhuman mother thrust it head foremost in the stove, and held it there until she thought it was dead; she afterwards placed it on a bed, which she set on fire, and then leaving the house hurried to one of her neighbors, to whom she stated that her place was on fire. The child, in the meantime, recovered sufficiently to be able to leave the house, and when the mother returned she found it out of doors, but burned to such an extent that its life was despaired of. The wretch was arrested and committed to await the result of the child's injuries.

CAUSE OF CAMPHENE EXPLOSIONS.—A correspondent of the Boston Journal explains this matter.:—"Explosions are not generally caused by contact of the flame with the fluid itself, but with a gas that is always escaping from the fluid when open to the air. People not understanding this fact, think they may safely fill the lighted lamp, if they do not allow the flame to touch the fluid itself, but the invisible gas arises, touches the flame, the lamp explodes and the consequences are sad, perhaps fatal.—Never bring a lighted lamp within a foot of the very nearest, of open fluid." Experience has demonstrated, by a great sacrifice of human life, that the fluid should never be brought within a foot of the lamp.

☞ A most distressing occurrence lately took place in the town of Bloomer, Montcalm county, Michigan. At the raising of a large barn, a couple of small boys were playing with a large broadaxe, when one of them suggested to his playmate to lay his head on a block and let him cut it off, which was done, and the sharp heavy axe instantly servered the head from the body of the little fellow. Just at this instant a large "bent" of the frame was poised midair; but the men engaged in it were so shocked at the sight that they let go their hold, when the huge timbers, with a tremendous crash, fell to the ground, killing three men instantly.

THE CONSEQUENCES.—Speaking of disunion, the Richmond Dispatch says: "It is impossible to exaggerate the horrors and sufferings which for years would follow a dissolution of the Union For ourselves, we have no idea of a peaceful dissolution. As we have said before, it would be war from the start, war to the knife, and the knife to the hilt. The widely extended border between the North and South would be a line of blood. Every accessible bay and inlet of every river would be entered, and, ever and anon, large masses of men hurled upon the capitals and important points of Southern States."

☞ The most powerful pumping engine in the world has just been put in operation at the Brooklyn water-works. At a test made about a week ago it raised 611,083 pounds one foot high, with one pound of coal, and delivered 15,500,000 gallons of water to the reservoir in twenty-four hours. The tubes which convey the water from the pump to the reservoir are 4,000 feet long, and three feet in diameter, and the amount of coal which it burns in twenty-four hours is fifteen tons. It is sixteen per cent more powerful than the great Leeuwarden engine of the Holland marshes, and cost $100,000.

☞ The Virginia House of delegates has adopted resolutions instructing the Committee on Schools and Colleges to inquire into the expediency of reporting a bill prohibiting school commissioners throughout the Commonwealth from subscribing to any teacher, male or female who hails from the North of Mason and Dixon's line, unless they shall have resided in the State of Virginia for at least ten successive years previous.

PARENTAL AFFLICTION.—A remarkable bereavement has befallen the household of Michael Fitzgerald, of Fairfield, Vt., consisting of a father, mother and five children. On Friday morning, as we learn, they were all well and on the Sunday following, four of the children died of the scarlet fever. On Tuesday following, the four were committed to one grave, and on the return from the sad office, the parents found the remaining child who had been left at home, and sick with the same disease, had also died. The cup of affliction could hardly be more trying to parent's hearts.

☞ The New Hampshire Patriot states that on Friday morning seventeen well dressed young ladies were seen marching up Main st., in Concord, drawing a barrel of flour on a hand sled, walking in couples and drawing by a rope, with the odd one for a leader. Upon inquiry, it was ascertained that they were the girls employed in a tailoring establishment, whose proprietor offered a barrel of flour to a poor woman, on condition that the girls should draw it to her in this manner—a proposition very readily accepted by the girls, and very handsomely performed.

A CHILD MANGLED BY A DOG.—On Sunday last, a son of Mr. Christian Rider, residing in York township, about seven years of age, was mangled in a most frightful manner by a large dog kept on his farm. The boy was amusing himself in playing with the dog, when all at once the dog became enraged and fell upon the child with the ferocity of a tiger, and inflicted severe wounds upon his face, arms and one of his limbs. We are told that a piece of flesh was torn from the boy's leg by the enraged animal. —York Press.

GREAT DEPTH OF THE OCEAN.—The following account of the depth at which the ocean has been sounded, will give some account of the vast valleys that exist in its bed. The sounding was performed in the Atlantic, and the bottom was reached at 7,700 fathoms or 15,412 yards, being over eight miles. The time required for this immense length of line to run out was about nine hours and a half.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Benevolence.

We do not think a person can evince a more benevolent trait of character than being moved at the distress and sufferings of others, and furthermore, anxious to do all in their power to alleviate by every possible means human suffering. In this view of the case, we do not know how the humane and benevolent can do an action more in accordance with their philanthrophic views, than by calling the attention of their afflicted friends and acquaintances to the fact, that DR. SETH S. HANCE, of 108 Baltimore street, Baltimore, M. D. has discovered a preparation, which is put up in the form of a pill, that has a specific action for curing Epilepsy, or falling fits, spasms, cramps, and all forms of nervous diseases. Among those who have been permanently cured, we might mention a member of the family of James H. Beadle, Huntsville, Alabama; Mr. M. P. Sledge, Cabin Point, Surry county, Va., and Mr. W. P. Ligon, Grenada, Mississippi. We might go on enumerating a number of others, until we had entirely filled up this column of our paper; but we think we have said sufficient to satisfy every person that the subject under consideration is one of vital importance to every one. Reader! if you are a well man or woman, and have no need of a remedy, perhaps you know some person who is not equally blessed as yourself, if so, cut out this notice, and send it to him or her. It will cost you but little trouble, and probably it will make you instrumental in curing some poor, afflicted mortal of that dreadful visitation, Epilepsy, or falling sickness.

Dr. Hance sends his pills by mail, free of postage, to all parts of the world, on the receipt of a remittance. His prices are: one box, $3; two, $5; twelve, $24. We have given his address above.

What family does not require a standard Liniment? Who ever heard of the same effects produced by any other article? For cuts, bruises, sprains, rheumatism, swellings, strained horses, &c., it has no equal. Beware of imitations. The genuine Mustang Liniment is sold by all respectable Druggists and Livery Men in every town, parish and hamlet throughout North and South America, Europe, and the Islands of the Ocean. ☞ "OH THAT THE SKIN OF AN innocent sheep should be made into parchment, and written on to the undoing of a man!" quoth Shakspeare. He might also have deplored the ruining of men's forms by the uncouth manner in which some ungracious tailors butcher up the cloth made from the wool grown by these same harmless sheep. To see the perfection of the art of working up cloth wisely and well, and so as to set off to the best advantage the forms of its wearers, call at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut St., above Sixth, Phila. and examine their stock of garments for gentlemen and youths.

☞ It is a common observation that there are more sufferers from debility, among Americans, than can be found among any other civilized nation. The reason is obvious. We take too little exercise, and forget the wants of the body in the absorbing pursuits of business. In all such cases, ordinary medicine can do little good. What is required is just such a tonic and invigorator as Dr. J Hostetter has given to the world, in his CELEBRATED "BITTERS." The weak and nervous denizen of the counting-house, the exhausted toiler upon the shop-board, and the prostrated student of the midnight lamp, have found a wonderful regenerator in the "BITTERS," and prefer it to more pretentious, but less efficacious medicines. But it should not be forgotten that the agent which is so magical in its influence upon a frame which is merely debilitated, is equally powerful in assisting nature to expel the most terrible forms of disease. Who will not give it a trial?

LOCAL ITEMS.

HORRIBLE CASE OF INFANTICIDE.—On Saturday morning last, Coroner Fox was called upon to hold an inquest on the body of a new-born female child, which was lying in a house in the North Ward, and which was supposed to have come to its death by strangulation, or the want of proper attention. It appears that the mother of the child, whose name, we believe is Dunn, was a servant girl in the house in which the affair took place, and that on Friday morning she complained of being unwell, but her real condition was not suspected by the woman of the house. In the afternoon she went up stairs and shut herself up in a room, and refused a correct answer to all questions as to what was the matter, and requested to be left alone. A neighbor woman coming in, and learning the state of affairs, suspected that all was not right, and went up to the girl's room, on entering which, she discovered what confirmed her suspicions, and she at once charged the girl with having given birth to a child, or having produced an abortion upon herself. The girl at first denied, but afterwards admitted that the first charge was correct, and that the child could be found between the straw bed and chaff bed, on which she was lying, wrapped up in a skirt. The woman immediately made search for the child and found it with the skirt wrapped tightly around its head and neck, and although quite dead, it was still warm. Suspecting that the girl had thus wrapped up the child for the double purpose of stifling its outcries and strangling it, she communicated the fact to those through whom it reached the ears of the coroner, who proceeded to hold an inquest, from which the facts as above related were adduced. The child, it is said, was quite large and healthy looking, perfectly formed, and, in the opinion of the physician present, had been born alive, a fact which, we believe, the mother does not deny.

From all the evidence before the jury, they could not do otherwise than find that the child came to its death by the hands of its mother, and they so recorded it in their verdict.

Cases of this kind have become so common of late, and the guilty so often escaped the punishment due, because they could not be discovered, that they have lost much of their enormity and horror; but certainly, when the affair is rightly considered, it is nothing less than murder, and that the most revolting—a parent murdering her own defenceless child. With what horror do we shrink from the contemplation of the actions of heathen mothers in casting their infants into the jaws of crocodiles, in the river Ganges; and yet such actions are no more barbarous than the one we have related.

We presume the affair will undergo an investigation before a court of justice, in due time, and the guilty be properly punished.

ACCIDENTS.—A few days since, as the workmen at the Mill Creek Bridge, below Lancaster, were returning from their work on a hand car, the clothing of Wm. Percival, of this place, who was working at the crank, was caught by it, and he was thrown from the car, on the track, the wheels passing over his right leg, fracturing both bones, and cutting and bruising him about the head and other parts of the body. Five other workmen on the car were also thrown off, and more or less cut and bruised, but not seriously.

On Tuesday afternoon last, Mr. Robert M'Coy a breakman on the Local Freight, was seriously injured in attempting to jump from his train, which was in motion, upon a wood train, standing at Petersburg station. In making the leap from the moving train, he threw his arm around a standard of the wood truck, which, not being able to bear his weight, gave way, and he fell, with his hip against the cabin car of the train, injuring the joint so much that he has not been able to help himself since, and from which he suffers much pain when he attempts to exert himself, or is moved. Dr. Gemmill is attending him.

ALMOST A FIRE.—A number of our citizens were rather uncremoniously summoned from their warm couches, about two o'clock on Friday morning last, by the ringing of the fire-alarm bell. The Good Will boys were soon on hand and with their hose proceeded to the scene of conflagration, which proved to be in a building owned by Dr. Ickes and occupied by Mr. Newhart, situate on Branch street immediately below Annie. The fire originated from a stove-pipe passing through the ceiling and floor of the first and second stories. It had just began to blaze, when first discovered, but was soon extinguished by the copious showers of water played upon it, and but little damage was done.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Mr. A. B. Long, pipe-layer on the Penna. R. R., made a narrow escape from a terrible death, on Friday morning last. It appears that he was crossing a track in the yard, beneath a car attached to a train which was about moving off, and ere he could clear the track, the break of the last truck struck him and knocked him forward on the track. Luckily he succeeded in clearing the rails before the cars came upon him—not a little frightened, as any man would be, as his narrow escape.

A "GAY LARK" CHASE.—About two weeks ago a young lady at Blair Furnace sued out a warrant for a certain young man at Tipton, for utter disregard of certain paternal distinctions, and placed the missive in the hands of a young constable of the former place, who, with a six-shooter in pocket, proceeded to bring the careless young man to a proper sense of his duty. On arriving at Tipton, 'ossifer' discovered careless young gent spending his time in a very careless manner about a smith-shop just in the rear of the hotel. Thinking to save trouble, "ossifer" concluded not to arrest careless young gent until about the time the western bound train would make its appearance at the station. When the whistle sounded at Tyrone, "ossifer" rushed to the smith-shop and informed careless gent of his errand. Careless gent said, "good evening, sir," and started on foot for a journey into the "kedentry" hotly pursued by the Commonwealth who discharged one barrel after another of his artillery at the flying Lothario, but always missing his man. Retreating party struck a line due east for a patch of pine bushes on the line of the railroad, thence south to snadry piles of wood, thence west to hotel, thence north through the hall to the place of beginning, and there disappeared to the astonishment of the astute constable, who, with dim visions of costs from plaintiff, and a hard winter setting in, with poor boots, and his ammunition expended, hastened to board the approaching train and go home by himself.

THAT'S SO.—Discontinuing to advertise, says the Philadelphia Bulletin, is like taking down one's own sign. It is a sort of intimation of retirement from business, and the public treat it as such. Or they may regard it as evidence that something has gone wrong, which requires privacy for investigation. Whatever construction may be put upon it, the result is disastrous. Now we advise all our readers who may have fallen in the common error of the season to come out of their holes, to put up their signs once more; and to advertise in as many papers as they did in the best times. While business creates advertising it is equally true that advertising creates business. It creates a talk and stir in business circles, and reminds people that they have no right to be leading drones' lives even though the times be dull. And even in the worst of times advertising always pays well, and the more of it there is, the greater will be the circulation of money, and the sooner will be restored a condition of prosperity.

A TRUE STATEMENT.—Those afflicted with disease of the lungs and bronchial organs, will find a remedy of great power in that best of all medicines compounded by Dr. Geo H. Keyser, of 140 Wood street, Pittsburg, Pa., called "Pectoral Syrup." It reaches at once the seat of disease, and hundreds have been cured by it after every other remedy has failed. Most of what are called patent medicines, fail for want of proper adaptation of the ingredients, which do not reach the disease. This is not the case with Dr. Keyser's remedy, every bottle of which is compounded by himself, and with the intention to alleviate bad cases, and to cure mild cases. Numbers of our citizens can attest the truth of our statement in this respect. Price 50 cents & $1 per bottle. Sold at his Drug Store, No. 140 Wood street, and at G. W. Kessler's, Altoona.

DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE.—A sad accident occurred on Tuesday the 10th inst., by which Robert M., son of James Hamilton, Esq., of West township, Huntingdon co., lost his life.—He was engaged in removing some saw-logs from the top of a pile, which being icy, his feet slipped, and he fell, striking his head upon the ground which produced concussion of the brain. He lingered until the ensuing Friday, when death released him from his sufferings. He was in his twenty-fourth year. His friends miss his welcome voice, and sigh as they glance at the vacant chair in their family circle, never more to be occupied by him.

He joined the Presbyterian Church in Altoona during a revival four years ago of which church he was still a member. In the midst of life, we are in death.—Huntingdon Journal & American.

SPRING ELECTION.—Three weeks from to-morrow our spring election will take place. The officers to be elected are one Justice of the Peace, one Constable, Chief Burgess, five Town Councilmen, two School Directors, one Assessor two assistant Assessors, one Auditor, three Judges and six Inspectors of Elections. Most, if not all, of these offices are important, and as the prosperity of our town, and its credit abroad depends in a great measure upon the character and qualifications of its officers, we hope our citizens will exercise their judgment in determining who are to be our rulers and servants for the next twelve months.

ACCIDENT AT LARIMER'S.—On Friday morning last, an accident occurred at the first cut west of Larimer's Station, Western Division, P. R. R., which resulted in the death of Nathan Burger, engineer, and the serious injury of Asberry Westfall, fireman, and Daniel McGary, conductor, on the Express Freight train westward. It appears that just as the train was passing through the cut, a large body of earth and slate rock fell directly upon the locomotive, almost burying it beneath the ruins, and killing and injuring the persons above named, who were on it at the time. No other persons on the train were injured.

VISITORS.—We neglected to notice, last week, that our ever-welcome cotemporary, of the Johnstown Tribune, Col. Bowman, paid us a visit on Saturday evening week. The Col. is an honor to the craft, and with the assistance of his partner, Col. Swank, prints one of the neatest and spiciest papers west of the Alleghenies.

Sam. Whittaker, of the Huntingdon Journal and American, dropped in upon us on Monday evening last. Sam's a clever fellow and perfect gentleman, and a pretty hard horse to crawl in an editorial or rough-and-tumble scrimmage, as some of his home cotemporaries have discovered.

DEATH.—Mr. David Courter, one of our most esteemed citizens, died, after a long and tedious illness, on Monday of last week. He was buried on Wednesday with Masonic honors—the ceremonies of both the Lodge and Commandary being performed on the occasion.

☞ Jas. D. Campbell, Esq., of Huntingdon, was, on Monday last, on motion of Thad. Banks, Esq., admitted to practice in the several Courts of Blair county.

THE ROLLING MILL.—Mr. Thos. McNamara, of Hollidaysburg, the gentleman who has undertaken to raise subscriptions of Stock for the erection of a Rolling Mill in this place, requests us to state that, owing to Court engagements, he will not be in Altoona until Saturday next; when he will receive subscriptions, (not less than fifty dollars,) to this important enterprise.

☞ Mr. John Mitchell, of Hollidaysburg, has been appointed Superintendent of Common Schools in Blair county, in place of Jno. Dean, Esq., resigned. Mr. M. will hold this situation until May next, when the Directors of the several townships of the county will meet and elect a Superintendent for the ensuing three years.

To the Free and Independent Voters of the Borough of Altoona,

Friends and fellow-citizens—You will see by this declaration that I publicly announce myself as the People's candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace, East Ward, of the borough of Altoona. Therefore, I would most cordially solicit your suffrages, and, if elected, will endeavor to discharge the duties of the office to the best of my ability and judgment.

JOHN L. ICKES.

Altoona, Jan. 17th, 1860.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The time is fast approaching for the spring elections. Among the offices to be elected, will be a Justice of the Peace, and since several persons are spoken of as candidates for the important office, we propose the name of William Gable, of the East Ward. Mr. Gable is a gentleman well qualified to fill the office. For integrity, industry and sobriety, he is second to none in the borough, and should he be elected the citizens will be proud of their officer.

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN STEREOSCOPIC EMPORIUM.
E. ANTHONY, 308 Broadway, New York.
After May 1st, 1860, at 501 Broadway, two doors from the St. Nicholas Hotel.

The Stereoscope is the most instructive, interesting, entertaining, amusing and exciting of modern inventions.

None are too young, none too old, none too intelligent, none too uneducated, to acknowledge its worth and beauty.

No home is complete without it, and it must and will penetrate everywhere.

It presents to your view every part of the world, in all the relief, boldness, perspective, and sharpness of detail, as if you were on the spot.

Photographers are everywhere exploring Europe, Asia, Africa, America, in search of the grand and the beautiful, and the results of their skill are constantly enriching our stock.

We have an immense variety of paper Views of Scenes in Paris, London, England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, France Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Spain, The Rhine, Versailles St. Cloud, Fontainebleau, Tuilleries, Italy, Turkey, Egypt Athens, the Holy Land, China, India, Crystal Palace, also Groups Historical, amusing marriage scenes, breakfast scenes, pic-nics, statuary, &c., &c. An exquisite assortment of Illuminated Interiors of Palaces, Churches, and Cathedrals of France, Italy, &c., &c. The effect of these illuminated views is most remarkable.

Every gentleman of wealth and refined taste should have in his drawing-room some of our exquisite views on glass, with a revolving stereoscope, showing 12, 25, 50 or 100 scenes. Nothing can be more fascinating, and one can offer no greater treat to a friend fond of the picturesque and the beautiful.

Anthony's Instantaneous Stereoscopic Views are the latest Photographic wonder. They are taken in the fortieth part of a second, and everything no matter how rapidly it may be moving, is depicted as sharply and distinctly as if it had been perfectly at rest. This gives an additional value, for to the beauties of inanimate nature it adds the charm of life and motion. The process is a discovery of our own, and being unknown in Europe, we receive from London and Paris large orders for Anthony's Instantaneous Views of American life and scenery.

Among other things we have just published Stereoscopic Illustrations of the Scene of the Fulton Street Prayer Meetings, in which many hearts feel an interest. The particulars of this will be found in our catalogue.

Our Catalogue of subjects and prices will be forwarded to any address on receipt of a stamp.

Parties at a distance sending us $3, $5, $10, $15, $20, or $25, can have a good instrument and such pictures as they may request, sent by Express.

Views alone, (without instrument) can be sent by mail.

Parties who wish to be advised of everything really valuable in the line that comes out, may send us their names to place on record, and we will keep them posted at our own expense.

Men of leisure will find Photography a most fascinating and delightful amusement. We are prepared to fit out amateurs with everything necessary for their success together with instructions "How to take Stereoscopic Pictures." E. ANTHONY,

Importer and Manufacturer of Photographic Materials, Stereoscopes and Stereoscopic Views.

Altoona, Oct. 13, '59.

JUST OPENED
A STOCK OF Entirely New Goods.
R. A. O. KERR
WOULD INFORM THE GOOD people of Altoona, the surrounding country, and the "rest of mankind," that he has just returned from the city with a large stock of NEW GOODS, which he offers at reasonable prices, at the stand formerly occupied by R. Kerr, and recently by W. O'Neal, on Main street. His stock is the only one in town which is ENTIRELY NEW,
and he flatters himself that he has something to please the eye of every lady, and suit the wants of every gentleman. He deems it unnecessary to enumerate all the articles on the shelves, (as to do so would require a whole newspaper,) but would say that he has everything in the line of which this meridian calls for, and all just suited to the season, together with a well selected assortment of House Furnishing Goods, such as Carpets, Window Blinds, Shades, &c., which will commend themselves.
LADIES' DRESS GOODS
FOR GENTLEMEN,
he has a great variety—from which they can not fail to make a satisfactory selection. He has also a tip-top assortment of GROCERIES as good, fresh and cheap as can be had this side of the place of growing or manufacture. Also, HARDWARE, QUEENSWARE, and everything necessary to complete a store in a thriving town like Altoona.

All he asks is that the people call and examine his stock, which he will at all times take pleasure in showing, and he feels confident that he can send them away rejoicing, if not in the purchase of just such an article as they wanted, at the remembrance of having looked upon the handsomest stock of Goods ever exhibited in the town.
Altoona, Oct. 20, 1859.

Speaking about hats and heads—the subscriber would respectfully announce that he has just returned from the city with a large and well selected stock of Men and Boys'
HATS AND CAPS, OF ALL STYLES, FOR FALL AND WINTER,
of every color and shape. Also, a good assortment of
LADIES AND MISSES FURS,

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Persons in want of anything in the above line, will please give me a call before purchasing elsewhere, as I am determined to sell at the very lowest possible prices.

NOW FOR FITS!—THE SUBscriber desires to inform the citizens of Altoona that he has just received his stock of
FALL AND WINTER CLOTHS,
Which he is prepared to make up to order on short notice

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of plain common sense, they may be able so to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired effect, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enable the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal.

Diarrhœa, dysentery or flux, so generally contracted by new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet, will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation. Dyspepsia, a disease which is probably more prevalent, in all its various forms, than any other, and the cause of which may always be attributed to derangements of the digestive organs, can be cured without fail by using HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per directions on the bottle. For this disease every physician will recommend Bitters of some kind; then why not use an article known to be infallible? All nations have their Bitters, as a preventive of disease and strengthener of the system in general; and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy people than the Germans, from whom this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER AND AGUE.—This trying and provoking disease, which fixes its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him physically and mentally useless, can be driven from the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S RENOWNED BITTERS. Further, none of the above stated diseases can be contracted, even in exposed situations, if the Bitters are used as per directions. And as they neither create nausea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and healthy digestion, the complaint is removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure.

For Persons in Advanced Years, who are suffering from an enfeebled constitution and infirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need only be tried to be appreciated. And to a mother while nursing these Bitters are indispensable, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart temporary strength and vigor to the system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy for all cases of debility, and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtue of the Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weakness.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.

☞ Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, Canada, South America, and Germany.

☞ Sold by G W Kessler and A. Roush, Altoona; G A Jacobs, J K Patton and W G Murray, Hollidaysburg; and Elwell & Berlin, Tyrone [Aug 25, 1859-1y
